

Note

The following is a list, in alphabetical order, of manufacturers which currently sell devices that are compliant with ComReg's technical conditions to meet the license exemption for mobile phone repeaters. ComReg is providing this list in order to assist transparency for consumers.

ComReg does not endorse any of these manufacturers, and consumers should do their own research on which device is most appropriate for their own needs in terms of quality and price.

Many of these companies are international companies and sell devices with different specifications in other countries.

Please check with the manufacturer which of its devices are compliant with Irish law. Non-compliant devices are illegal under the Wireless Telegraphy Act 1926 as amended and could potentially cause interference to Mobile Network Operators or may not operate on Irish mobile frequencies.

ComReg will regularly review this list to ensure that it is kept up-to-date.
